Employer Funding Business Case

Marketing Leadership Programme | Starts 8 October 2026 | £799 | Live online | CPD accredited

Purpose	Format	Investment
Develop the strategic, commercial and leadership capability needed to operate at Head of Marketing and Marketing Director level.	Seven live online sessions in a small cohort, led by James McCracken FCIM.	£799 for the full programme. Employer invoicing available.

Why this development is relevant

The programme is designed for experienced marketers whose role is expanding beyond campaign delivery. It develops the judgement and confidence needed to set priorities, connect marketing decisions to business goals, influence senior stakeholders and lead a marketing function more effectively.

Strategic leadership	Move from managing activity to setting direction, prioritising resources and making clearer decisions.
Commercial confidence	Connect marketing activity to business performance, budgets, value and board-level conversations.
Stakeholder influence	Improve how marketing is explained, defended and represented to senior colleagues and non-marketing stakeholders.
Team leadership	Lead internal teams and agencies with clearer expectations, feedback and accountability.
Data and reporting	Use evidence to make decisions and communicate what is working, what is not and what should change next.
Practical application	Apply the learning to current priorities rather than treating professional development as a separate academic exercise.

Suggested business outcomes

Use the points below as a starting point and adapt them to the employee's role and current priorities.

• Stronger contribution to annual and quarterly marketing planning.

• More commercially grounded recommendations and budget decisions.

• Clearer reporting to senior leadership on marketing performance and priorities.

• Improved management of agencies, team members and cross-functional stakeholders.

• Greater readiness to take on broader Head of Marketing or Marketing Director responsibility.
